The core objective of ISO 45001 to prevent work-related injury and ill-health and to provide safe and healthy workplaces.

ISO 45001 is effective occupational health and safety management system will help you to protect and enhance your most important asset, your people, to drive business excellence. As an international standard, OHSMS crosses geographic, political, economic, commercial and social boundaries. This sets a single benchmark for the management of occupational health and safety.

Occupational Health and Safety Management System (OHSMS) came into existence very recently and implemented from the year 2018. It is the extension of ISO Standard Series for Health & Safety as ISO 45001:2018.

It is an International standard which is common across the globe and providing the same platform for same Health & Safety practices irrespective of region and culture. ISO 45001:2018 is designed in such a way that it is preventing the Injuries, Health and fatal accident onsite.

Overview

ISO 45001 focuses on identifying risks and opportunities, hazard identification and risk assessment, and operational controls.

This standard is designed to help organizations, regardless of size or industry, implement an OHSMS to proactively prevent injury and harm to health. Requirements of the standard were simplified to enable easy integration with other ISO standards and into an organization's management and business processes.

An OHSMS can provide the framework for organizations to address "communicable diseases" such as the Coronavirus.

Requirements of the standard offer systematic processes for managing risk, regulatory compliance, promotion of safe work practices, evaluation of occupational health and safety performance, and continual improvement.
